Duties of Citizenship.

The Mormon daily, of this city, is a recent editorial, predicting a large influx of immigration from Europe the present summer in consequence of the threatened German war, offers as an encouragement the fact that there is in America more freedom "to do as they deem please than under any of the old monarchies of Europe." That is a truism of which none have such reason to be perfectly convinced by the lessons of long experience as the writer of the article in question and his fellow law-breakers in polygamy. So far as their knowledge extends, gathered from actual experience of its power, there is no such thing as a Government of the United States. From common rumor they have doubtless heard a report of its existence, but, as a matter of observation, it is very nearly a myth.

At various times they have seen men in blue, said to be in United States service, but their leaders and public press neglected no opportunity to render them obnoxious by misrepresentation, or to bring them into contempt by ridicule. These things have passed unnoticed, because those, who were thus insulted, were under strict orders not to give occasion by their acts for slanders, circulated to their discredit without cause, nor for overt acts of treason, under pretence of resistance to oppression, by the Mormon leaders. But the leniency of the Government, preferring rather to encourage than compel loyalty, has tended to produce, through the perverse instrumentalities of those leaders, a result exactly opposite to that desired. When Judge Cradlebaugh was here, they were, as of late they have repeatedly been, reminded by judicial rulings, quite at variance with the code of polygamy, that there really exists a power in the land independent of, and superior to, the edicts of their prophet. But, as yet, so unfrequently have such things occurred, and so long have the Mormons been allowed "to do as they deem please," in the elegant phrase of their favorite organ grinder, these decisions are received with extreme disgust, being regarded as extra officious meddling in their peculiar affairs.

These judges do not sufficiently mind their own business to suit the ideas of their Sauty neighbors, and hence the leaders are supremely disgusted with their presence. In the language of Samuel H. Wells, second only to His Holiness of Deseret in the Mormon church, they "have no respect whatever for the United States judges." These worthies possibly foresee, in the early future, danger of interference with their "vested rights" in certain vast tracts of valuable timber lands in neighboring canyons, and in certain other tracts of arable lands, no less valuable and vast, by persons who will doubtless be sustained in their rights by these same independent judges. It is in such places that the shoe pinches.

The mass of the Mormon people are all right and peaceable enough, we maintain, if let alone by their leaders. The former have nothing to fear, personally or pecuniarily—the latter everything. It is not the poor and uninformed who will be rigorously dealt with, restrained in person and made to yield up the homes they have wrested from the desert with sore toil and every circumstance of privation. Not these, but the lawless and licentious pretenders, grown rich by extortion, who lord it over them and lay claim to every desirable thing within their reach, to which they have no more title than the man in the moon. These are the ones who will have to give an account of their stewardship and of themselves—they know the fact perfectly and are correspondingly zealous in postponing the inevitable issue. They know that the longer they hold unchallenged the possessions wrongfully obtained, the greater their security from molestation in the future. But, as we live, they shall be disappointed. They are the enemies of human virtue and happiness, and their last days shall be full of trouble—their sins shall not go down in peace.

Now, as to this polygamous kind of the quill and scissors, to whose do-as-they-deem-please sentiments we alluded in the beginning of this article, we hold that he and those of his ilk should be cured of all such unwholesome ideas at once and effectually. Especially is it necessary here, where the behests of the Pacha of Deseret have been so long obeyed as the supreme law of the land, Congressional enactments to the contrary notwithstanding, that many are apt to forget the existence of any other authority to which obedience is ever due. Such an example should be afforded as would teach all whom it concerned that emigrants cannot come to America and "do as they deem please." That there are duties commensurate with the privileges of citizenship, and that the former will be henceforth as rigorously exacted as the latter are freely bestowed. And finally, as far as religions are concerned, let it be distinctly understood, that, while all are left free in mere matters of faith, they will be inexorably held to a strict observance of legal restraints—that, while they may worship any idol they please, they must bow in obedience to the national will, to all laws that stand upon the statute books unrepelled.

BY PACIFIC TELEGRAPH.

[SPECIAL TO THE DAILY UNION-VEDETTE.]

CONGRESSIONAL.

SENATE.

Washington, July 7. The Senate, after debate by Johnson, Trumbull, Sumner and Fessenden, voted to receive the minority report, by Johnson, from the Reconstruction Committee (heretofore noticed,) not to establish a precedent for the future.

Trumbull, from the Judiciary Committee, reported a bill in relation to appointments and removals from office.

A joint resolution for the settlement of military claims against Nevada was passed.

Wade introduced a joint resolution to guarantee fifty millions loan to the Republic of Mexico, which was referred to the Committee on Foreign Affairs.

The Senate adjourned at half past one, on motion of Grimes, who said the best had already prostrated several Senators and threatened others.

GENERAL NEWS.

Washington, July 6. The President has signed the Pacific Railroad bill.

Both Houses passed the tax bill upon the report of a conference committee on the 3 cent tax in cotton and the provision allowing gas companies and horse railroads to add the taxes to their customers until the 30th of next April. Some progress is being made with the tariff bill in the House.

Democratic Senators and Representatives publish an address, endorsing the call for a National Union Convention at Philadelphia, August 14th.

Portland, Me., July 6. Generous contributions of relief are arriving for the sufferers by the late fire, and already the work of rebuilding has begun. The total loss is estimated at ten or twelve millions and will involve some of the insurance companies in ruin. The whole passage of fire through the city was made in less than twelve hours, and it only stopped at the open pasture in Munjoy. The fire proof buildings were hardly safer than wooden ones. The Custom House, in which are the Post Office and the United States Courts, was built by Government, and there really exists a power in the land independent of, and superior to, the edicts of their prophet. But, as yet, so unfrequently have such things occurred, and so long have the Mormons been allowed "to do as they deem please," in the elegant phrase of their favorite organ grinder, these decisions are received with extreme disgust, being regarded as extra officious meddling in their peculiar affairs.

These judges do not sufficiently mind their own business to suit the ideas of their Sauty neighbors, and hence the leaders are supremely disgusted with their presence. In the language of Samuel H. Wells, second only to His Holiness of Deseret in the Mormon church, they "have no respect whatever for the United States judges." These worthies possibly foresee, in the early future, danger of interference with their "vested rights" in certain vast tracts of valuable timber lands in neighboring canyons, and in certain other tracts of arable lands, no less valuable and vast, by persons who will doubtless be sustained in their rights by these same independent judges. It is in such places that the shoe pinches.

The mass of the Mormon people are all right and peaceable enough, we maintain, if let alone by their leaders. The former have nothing to fear, personally or pecuniarily—the latter everything. It is not the poor and uninformed who will be rigorously dealt with, restrained in person and made to yield up the homes they have wrested from the desert with sore toil and every circumstance of privation. Not these, but the lawless and licentious pretenders, grown rich by extortion, who lord it over them and lay claim to every desirable thing within their reach, to which they have no more title than the man in the moon. These are the ones who will have to give an account of their stewardship and of themselves—they know the fact perfectly and are correspondingly zealous in postponing the inevitable issue. They know that the longer they hold unchallenged the possessions wrongfully obtained, the greater their security from molestation in the future. But, as we live, they shall be disappointed. They are the enemies of human virtue and happiness, and their last days shall be full of trouble—their sins shall not go down in peace.

Now, as to this polygamous kind of the quill and scissors, to whose do-as-they-deem-please sentiments we alluded in the beginning of this article, we hold that he and those of his ilk should be cured of all such unwholesome ideas at once and effectually. Especially is it necessary here, where the behests of the Pacha of Deseret have been so long obeyed as the supreme law of the land, Congressional enactments to the contrary notwithstanding, that many are apt to forget the existence of any other authority to which obedience is ever due. Such an example should be afforded as would teach all whom it concerned that emigrants cannot come to America and "do as they deem please." That there are duties commensurate with the privileges of citizenship, and that the former will be henceforth as rigorously exacted as the latter are freely bestowed. And finally, as far as religions are concerned, let it be distinctly understood, that, while all are left free in mere matters of faith, they will be inexorably held to a strict observance of legal restraints—that, while they may worship any idol they please, they must bow in obedience to the national will, to all laws that stand upon the statute books unrepelled.

Chicago, July 7. The Tennessee Legislature met on the 4th, according to Gov. Brownlow's proclamation, but adjourned till next week. There were several very serious disturbances among the negroes at Nashville during July 4th and 5th, in which some twenty or thirty were killed and many wounded. In one case fifty white soldiers and more than double that number of black ex-soldiers had a regular pitched battle. Several were killed and wounded on both sides. It is thought this will lead to another Congressional investigation committee.

The Old Fellows' Hall, the most massive and magnificent building in New Orleans, except the St. Charles hotel, was burned on the 5th. The building, including the furniture, was valued at $300,000. Insured for $25,000.

The bill introduced into Congress to establish conditions for the admission of the British North American Provinces into the Union has aroused angry feeling in government circles in Canada. The bill is looked upon as a bid to the Provinces to throw off their allegiance to Great Britain and join in what is termed the political confusion of the United States. The feeling is against any such step.

Chicago, July 7. Leavenworth dispatches announced the suicide and death of Senator Lane with great particularity, and his obituary was published all over the country. It was stated that he was dying and could not live out the night. It is now stated, under date of the 6th, that his condition is favorable and hopeful of recovery.

John F. Farnsworth was yesterday re-nominated for Congress by the Republicans of the 2d Illinois district.

The Richmond Whig, while approving the proposed National Union Convention at Philadelphia, says that for the Southern States to send formal delegates to occupy official seats would unavoidably embarrass the convention.

We foresee very clearly that in making their declaration of sentiments and opinions some things would have to be omitted in defense to Southern delegates that would weaken the movement in the North, or if not omitted would compel such expression of dissent on the part of those delegates as would render it better they had not been present.

The Whig concludes: Fortunately there is no need for the Northern States to go into convention to make known their feelings, as between radicals and conservatives, President Johnson and his antagonists, there is but one feeling and one voice on this question. All the radical sympathizers in the late Confederate States, if thrown into one Congressional district, could not carry it against the resident population.

Washington, July 7. The heat has been excessive all over the country and reports of sunstroke are frequent. There is no report as yet of undue sickness in any part of the country.

The tariff bill has undergone such extensive amendments in the House, generally tending to higher rates, that hopes are entertained to postpone the whole bill upon the strength of its aggregate unpopularity. Will send a summary of the bill whenever it passes House.

New York, July 7. The Herald's Mexican correspondence, written from Mexico City 23d, Vera Cruz 25th and Tampico 1st, goes to show that the Mexican people were becoming more and more united in the cause of the independence of their country.

The Imperial forces, French and native, had sustained a number of defeats of greater or less severity in the field, and the cause of Maximilian was looking gloomy in consequence. Santa Anna engrossed a large share of public attention. The Mexican Liberals had proclaimed the theory that an understanding had been come to between Seward, the Emperor Napoleon and the ex-President, by which Maximilian would be let down gracefully. Santa Anna restored and elected President, the United States Cabinet holding itself ready to approve of the eventualities arising from the change of executive.

TRIP TO PAHRANAGAT.

NO. I.

Egan Cañon, Nevada, }
July 2d, 1866.

EDITOR VEDETTE:—When Judge A. G. Lawrence, Special P. O. Agent, for Montana, Idaho, Colorado and Utah, left Salt Lake City, on the 29th ult., for the purpose of establishing a mail route to the Pahranagat mines—I rashly promised to send any items of news that might transpire en route. Taking pencil and paper in hand I find writing for the printers and public is not in my line. However I will try to fulfill my promise.

Mr. Ruffinell with his usual liberality placed at our disposal a stage, four horses and driver, at any point along the western route we should select to start from. In a traveling companion it is always best to find out his peculiar weakness in order that time may pass pleasantly. I very innocently thought a good supply of "Valley Tan" would delight the Judge. But we were not many miles from the beautiful Salt Lake, when I discovered the great weakness of his character, to be—battermill. Every station was besieged, and every house, where blessing calves were to be seen around, was entered, and the frightened housewife or wives stood in gaping amazement, looking at the greybeard man crying out—"Have you any butter-milk?" Even now while writing I am called away to drink, with him, a glass of his favorite beverage—which tastes the sweeter from being handed to me by an intelligent and handsome young girl.

We leave here to-morrow for Pahranagat—this now seems to be the best point to start from. Capt. John Quinn, formerly of the 2d California Cavalry, has just come up from Pahranagat; while there on the 5th of June, he went out with a party of five men on scout after some Indians. On the 10th at a distance of about fifty two miles northwest from the mines, he came upon a band of twelve bucks, eight squaws and children—attacking the band, they killed all the bucks but one, who escaped. One squaw and papoose killed accidentally. The Indians had stolen stock, belonging to the miners, and considerable plunder, taken from a wagon belonging to the Gov. Blasted outfit—among it one keg of powder and several boxes of caps. The Indians were secure as they thought among the rocks—two of the five did most of the killing, and one claims to have killed three Indians at one shot, which is corroborated by his companion, a discharged Nevada Volunteer. (Query, was he discharged at that shot? Ed. VEDETTE.) The Indians belonged to Cowitch's band which ranges north and west of Pahranagat and are hostile, making it unsafe for the travel from Austin to Pahranagat, unless in sufficient numbers.

Lieut. Pike, of the Michigan troops, left here to-day for the east, via San Francisco, intends to return, and speaks in glowing terms of the New Mining District.

Mr. R. McElroy, in company with Lieut. Semmonds, late of the Nevada Infantry, arrived here from Callville via Pahranagat. Callville is at the head of navigation on the Colorado. He reports that river at Callville forty feet deep on the 8th of June, and running eight knots per hour. Mr. Dibble, agent for R. G. Sneath & Co., San Francisco, was there waiting the arrival of a large invoice of goods by the steamer Emerald, which, by last accounts, was lying at Fort Yuma. The people of Callville say the reason of the delay of the steamer is that the Navigation Company wants a bonus from the Government of one hundred and fifty thousand dollars, to remove some snags and other impediments through the rapids, which, the Callvillians claim, only exist in the imagination of the company, and by running their steamers there would be found no necessity for the appropriation.

Mr. McElroy passed on the Muddy a band of about three hundred warriors holding a council. They stated to him that they were not hostile to the "Americans," but to the Mormons. That the Mormons had stolen stock and laid it on them. I have lived among the Mormons a number of years and have found but very few of them thieves—so far as stealing stock, that I expect, is a yarn of their former allies—the Indians. Blackhawk, from all accounts, is more of a warrior than has been credited. He has succeeded in outfitting his own band a number from all the different Indian tribes of the southern part of the Territory. A woman told Mr. McElroy that Blackhawk's band ran off about four thousand head of church stock from Round Valley.

The Indians claim some of the Mormons did it. The Mormon Battalion is

Duties of Citizenship.

The Mormon daily, of this city, in a recent editorial, predicting a large influx of immigration from Europe the present summer in consequence of the threatened German war, offers as an encouragement the fact that there is in America more freedom "to do as they deem please than under any of the old monarchies of Europe." That is a truism of which none have such reason to be perfectly convinced by the lessons of long experience as the writer of the article in question and his fellow law-breakers in polygamy. So far as their knowledge extends, gathered from actual experience of its power, there is no such thing as a Government of the United States. From common rumor they have doubtless heard a report of its existence, but, as a matter of observation, it is very nearly a myth.

At various times they have seen men in blue, said to be in United States service, and their leaders and public press neglected no opportunity to render them obnoxious by misrepresentation, or to bring them into contempt by ridicule. These things have passed unnoticed, because those, who were thus insulted, were under strict orders not to give occasion by their acts for slanders, circulated to their discredit without cause, nor for overt acts of treason, under pretence of resistance to oppression, by the Mormon leaders. But the leniency of the Government, preferring rather to encourage than compel loyalty, has tended to produce, through the perverse instrumentality of those leaders, a result exactly opposite to that desired. When Judge Cradlebaugh was here, they were, as of late they have repeatedly been, reminded by judicial rulings, quite at variance with the code of polygamy, that there really exists a power in the land independent of, and superior to, the edicts of their prophet. But, as yet, so unfrequently have such things occurred, and so long have the Mormons been allowed "to do as they deem please," in the elegant phrase of their favorite organ grinder, these decisions are received with extreme disgust, being regarded as extra officious meddling in their peculiar affairs.

These judges do not sufficiently mind their own business to suit the ideas of their Saintly neighbors, and hence the leaders are supremely disgusted with their presence. In the language of Samuel H. Wells, second only to His Holiness of Deseret in the Mormon church, they "have no respect whatever for the United States judges." These worthies possibly foresee, in the early future, danger of interference with their "vested rights" in certain vast tracts of valuable timber lands in neighboring canyons, and in certain other tracts of arable lands, no less valuable and vast, by persons who will doubtless be sustained in their rights by these same independent judges. It is in such places that the shoe pinches.

The mass of the Mormon people are all right and peaceable enough, we maintain, if let alone by their leaders. The former have nothing to fear, personally or pecuniarily—the latter everything. It is not the poor and unfortunates who will be rigorously dealt with, restrained in person and made to yield up the homes they have wrested from the desert with sore toil and every circumstance of privation. Not these, but the lawless and licentious pretenders, grown rich by extortion, who lord it over them and lay claim to every desirable thing within their reach, to which they have no more title than the man in the moon. These are the ones who will have to give an account of their stewardships and of themselves—they know the fact perfectly and are correspondingly zealous in postponing the inevitable issue. They know that the longer they hold unchallenged the possessions wrongfully obtained, the greater their security from molestation in the future. But, as we live, they shall be disappointed. They are the enemies of human virtue and happiness, and their last days shall be full of trouble—their sins shall not go down in peace.

Now, as to this polygamous knight of the quill and scissars, to whose do-as-they-deem-please sentiments we alluded in the beginning of this article, we hold that he and those of his ilk should be cured of all such unwholesome ideas at once and effectually. Especially is it necessary here, where the behests of the Pacha of Deseret have been so long obeyed as the supreme law of the land, Congressional enactments to the contrary notwithstanding, that many are apt to forget the existence of any other authority to which obedience is ever due. Such an example should be afforded as would teach all whom it concerned that emigrants cannot come to America and "do as they deem please." That there are duties commensurate with the privileges of citizenship, and that the former will be henceforth as rigorously exacted as the latter were freely bestowed. And finally, as far as religions are concerned, let it be distinctly understood, that, while all are left free in mere matters of faith, they will be inexorably held to a strict observance of legal restraints—that, while they may worship any god they please, they must bow in obedience to the national will, to all laws that stand upon the statute books unrepelled.

CONGRESSIONAL.

SENATE.

Washington, July 7. The Senate, after debate by Johnson, Trumbull, Sumner and Rescenden, voted to receive the minority report, by Johnson, from the Reconstruction Committee (heretofore noticed,) not to establish a precedent for the future. Trumbull, from the Judiciary Committee, reported a bill in relation to appointments and removals from office. A joint resolution for the settlement of military claims against Nevada was passed. Wade introduced a joint resolution to guarantee fifty millions loan to the Republic of Mexico, which was referred to the Committee on Foreign Affairs. The Senate adjourned at half past one, on motion of Grimes, who said the heat had already prostrated several Senators and threatened others.

GENERAL NEWS.

Washington, July 6. The President has signed the Pacific Railroad bill. Both Houses passed the tax bill upon the report of a conference committee on the 3 cent tax in cotton and the provision allowing gas companies and horse railroads to add the taxes to their customers until the 30th of next April. Some progress is being made with the tariff bill in the House.

Democratic Senators and Representatives publish an address, endorsing the call for a National Union Convention at Philadelphia, August 14th.

Portland, Me., July 6. Generous contributions of relief are arriving for the sufferers by the late fire, and already the work of rebuilding has begun. The total loss is estimated at ten or twelve millions and will involve some of the insurance companies in ruin. The whole passage of fire through the city was made in less than twelve hours, and it only stopped at the open space in front of the city hall. The fire proof buildings were hardly safer than wooden ones. The Custom House, in which are the Post Office and the United States Courts, was built by Government to be entirely fire-proof, with nothing inflammable about it except the furniture and contents, and with quite an open space in front, with open streets on two sides. But the upper part is ruined inside, and masses of stone work are peeling from the outside. In some cases wooden buildings were saved while brick buildings on each side were burned. On the easterly corner of Myrtle and Cumberland streets a wooden building was saved, while every brick building on the square was destroyed.

Heretofore we have considered the city particularly safe from conflagrations. Our fire department is excellent, and the celerity with which dangerous fires have been subdued sometimes seemed marvelous. All the old and dangerous buildings are swept out clear, and the city will be rebuilt with the greatest attention to future security. Our shade trees were a wonderful protection on the outskirts of the fire, and to them some houses owe entirely their protection. The Athenaeum library was destroyed. The city building and custom house blazed again this morning and occasioned alarm. The city was in darkness last night, owing to the gas being cut off. A rain is falling now, but it is scarcely needed.

Portland, Me., July 7. Fears are entertained that gangs of thieves from other cities may attempt to rob some of the banks. The citizens have armed themselves for protection of property.

Chicago, July 7. The Tennessee Legislature met on the 4th, according to Gov. Brownlow's proclamation, but adjourned till next week. There were several very serious disturbances among the negroes at Nashville during July 4th and 5th, in which some twenty or thirty were killed and many wounded. at the head of the river, throwing up fortifications. So far it has not been a successful as Capt. Quinn with his five men.
There is not much being done here in the Egan mine. Out of the Pilligan about eighty thousand dollars has been taken. One of the parties is now east to get the claim, and all work is stopped
upon it.
It may be interesting to those who with myself, payed assessments on the Gold Canon Claim to know that the assessments, to say the least, have been very judiciously applied. This claim is one of the best here. I believe Egan Canon to be one of the richest mining districts in Nevada, and when the work is properly directed will stand among the first.
Mr. Fuller will have a four stamp mill running in a few days, and his is the only one that will be in operation this summer, from present appearances.
MINER.

The Daily Union Vedette

Local and Miscellaneous.

TO ADVERTISERS.—The VEDETTE is the greatest daily newspaper of Utah. Its immense circulation is every mining camp and city of Montana and Idaho, to which it gives the telegraphic despatches a whole week ahead of the Pacific papers, making it the most advantageous medium for advertising in these four central Territories.

WANTED.—A good, stout boy, 15 or 17 years old, can find employment in this office.

STEWART, the merchant prince in New York, reports an income last year of $4,788,000, upon which he is to pay a tax of over $400,000.

WILLIAM SWINTON, first historian of the army of the Potomac, is soon to prepare a volume on "The Twelve Principal Battles of the War."

FROM MONTANA.—Hon. Jas. M. Cannon has taken up his residence at Helena. The Bray Troupe is playing in Helena. Party feeling is very high in Montana. Both parties are holding large meetings and indulging somewhat heavily in resolutions. A claim quarrel occurred in Confederate Gulch, on the 19th
ult., in which Captain Green and a Mr.
Speldat were wounded.

NEW ADVERTISEMENT.—Saturday
we took a stroll through the extensive store of Messrs. Gilbert & Sons and were surprised to find such a large supply and extensive variety of goods in this market. With the addition now approaching completion, their store, fireproof store will embrace three floors, 170 x 30, which will no more than accommodate their large and rapidly increasing business. Don't fail to read their new column advertisement.

FIRE.—The recent disastrous fires in the East and West, should arouse our citizens to the necessity of providing more efficient measures for extinguishing fires in this city. Here is a city of 17-000 inhabitants without a single fire engine or any organization to act in case of a fire. We presume there is not another place of half our size in the country of which the same can be said.
Our citizens should take action in regard to this matter.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC.—Saturday we accepted the invitation of Mr. Perry to examine his celebrated Panorama of the Tour of Europe, which has of late excited so much interest on the Pacific slope, and which will be exhibited at the Academy of Music to-night. As a specimen of artistic skill it is unsurpassed, while the correctness of the views is vouched for by the distinguished traveler, Bayard Taylor.

The painting covers 75,000 square feet and requires two hours and a half to move it, while its variety is such that one obtains from visiting it a more extended idea of Europe than a two years'
journey would give.

It is the first painting of standard merit that has ever been brought to this city, and our citizens should extend to Mr. Perry a liberal patronage.

vorce of Jane B. Forbes from her hus-

The certificate of incorporation of the Farmers' Flouring Mill Association was filed to-day. They propose erecting suitable buildings and engaging in the purchasing and sale of grain and manufacture of flour. Capital stock, $75,000, divided into 750 shares of $100 each.

The charge of forgery preferred against James Beryl by his wife, was examined in the Police Court on Saturday afternoon and dismissed. The testimony showed that the woman endorsed the check, and gave it to her husband, but had forgotten the circumstance.

nent an artist as Mrs. Hayne.
